Water Dept. woes kept secret

by Jeff Nazzaro

The long, often painful saga known as the Wilmington Water and Sewer Department investigation is slowly and almost reluctantly grinding to a halt.

Selectmen will most likely vote in executive session Monday evening to release all or most of the information pertaining to the approximately four-year investigation by the Wilmington Police Department and the Middlesex County District Attorney's Office and the state attorney general's office.

"I think a great deal of the information will be available to the general public," Selectman Robert Cain said Tuesday. "I'm of the mind that all the information that is available should become public record.... Everybody should be aware of what went on and who did what, but it is not our intention to wrong those who were not [criminally] involved."

That information has been piling up since early in 1991, when Town Manager Michael Caira was first appointed to that post. As Caira cleaned house on the existing water and sewer regime from the inside out, Police Chief Bobby Stewart gathered facts.

While Caira's reorganization spared department members from state prosecution, the local criminal investigation quietly mounted.

During the summer of 1993, while the investigation continued, the water and sewer department exploded back into the forefront of town news. On two occasions, the town's water supply failed in part. New information obtained by the Town Crier points to the fact that at least one of those incidents was the result of tampering.

But now, with all investigatory work completed, Stewart has prepared a report. So too has Town Counsel Alan Altman.

With that work done, information regarding the results has been trickling out of a variety of unnamed sources. Many of the violations have been viewed as having been widely known both in and out of the department and include:

- A commonly known bookmaking operation run out of the department.
- Violation of open bidding laws.
- The use of public time and equipment for private jobs, most notably water hook-ups.
- The selling of scrap metal for private profit.
- Violations of the Wetlands Protection Act, including the dumping of asbestos in town wetlands.
- The "gift" of a transit costing thousands of dollars from the department to an employee for private use.

Details surrounding those and other unearthed violations could be released Monday.

And when the levee breaks...?

"I think [the public] might be surprised," Cain said, at the extent of the criminal wrongdoings practiced within the department. "It is far more reaching than I anticipated it would be."

For now, however, investigation information lies stagnant behind the board of selectmen, who balked last Monday at releasing the information until opinions could be heard from Altman, who was out-of-town on vacation, and Caira, who was ill. Stewart did attend the executive session.

Selectman Chester Bruce said he is waiting for Stewart's cue as to what information has to be released. Bruce said he wants to protect the names of informants and "people under orders."

"I really don't care about who was wrong if these names came out," Bruce said.

Cain said Altman's absence left some legal questions of the board pertaining to new information made available to its members unanswered.

Selectman Diane Allan also spoke of unanswered questions, but, like Cain, would not disclose specific board concerns arising in executive session.

"A couple of questions evolved out of the last executive session," Allan stated. "And a few more things have to be resolved."

Allan also added that "a couple of [board members] want to read the entire report, and not just synopses."

Stewart has apparently furnished a complete, voluminous report detailing the entire investigation. That report has been whittled down into smaller versions by both Stewart and Altman.

Now Allan says she wants all the information released as quickly as possible, which would be Monday at this point.

"I'm very anxious to see it all get out there and have everybody make up their own minds," Allan said. "The sooner the better as far as I'm concerned. I hope every little thing gets out there. Everything."

But Chairman Michael McCoy thinks last Monday was as soon as possible. Prior to that meeting, McCoy was very vocal about releasing information pertaining to the investigation. For him, waiting until Monday's meeting represents "another two week delay" against the board's "obligation to the people."

McCoy said that prior to last Monday's executive session, Caira had told him that Altman said the information was ready to be released.

"Town counsel indicated through the town manager to me that [Altman's] document and the police chief's [document] were suitable for release to the public," McCoy stated.

But, McCoy said, "Two members doubted my credibility and basically called me a liar. So I decided to table the executive session until the next selectmen's meeting so we could invite town counsel, the town manager and the police chief."

And that's where things stand now, with Monday's executive session and the probable decision to go public with the information looming.

And, Bruce said, "Where ever the chips fall, they're gonna fall."

Bert Cohen (right) demonstrates the use of The Reading Edge, "A Kurzweil Reader" at the Wilmington Memorial Library Wednesday afternoon. Seated before the machine is Commission on Citizens with Disability Chairman Dick Gage. Gage, who is blind, is well-versed in the machines operation. Behind Gage are library director Sarah Rueter and Assistant Town Manager Jeffrey Hull, on-hand for the presentation of the reading machine to the library. The gift was made by the commission, with a final financial boost from the Wilmington Lions Club.

The machine, manufactured by Adaptive Assist, a Xerox company, reads printed materials aloud by first scanning the information and then deciphering letters and spaces into words and sentences. The machine can read frontwards, backwards and individual words while repeating any desired information. The device will also spell words or entire pieces and comes equipped with approximately ten different reading voices, in male, female and child.

The reading machine is operated with an 18-key command pad and two dials, which control volume and reading speed, respectively (photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

The making of a budget

by Jeff Nazzaro

When Town Manager Michael Caira presents his preliminary budget to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen Monday night, it will mark the beginning of a lengthy process culminating in line-item approvals of the fiscal plan at Annual Town Meeting on April 22. During this time period, opportunities abound for residents to offer input into what will eventually become the voted budget of the Town of Wilmington.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of Caira's budget will be the allocation for the public schools. Sources have it that the schools will be asking for $3 million more than they got last year, though the final amount allotted figures to be much less than that, possibly in the $800,000 to $1.2 million range. O'Donnell said it Wednesday any speculation as to what final budget amount the school committee would approve was premature.

A preliminary school budget, prepared by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell, was set to be presented to the school committee for approval Jan. 11. That meeting was postponed due to snow until Jan. 25, two days after Caira presents his budget.

Should there be a discrepancy between what the school committee asks for and what Caira comes up with, that amount would be hashed out in discussions, possibly concluding with the finance committee's March meeting on education, but ultimately being decided at Annual Town Meeting.

Many townspeople are awaiting the proposed numbers for the 1995-96 school year to see what will finally be made of the system's well-documented overcrowding dilemma. In December, the recently formed school building committee voted to recommend to the school committee to reopen the Boutwell Street Elementary School. The committee voted to accept that recommendation, now, those concerned are waiting to see what kind of money is available to reopen the school and how whatever is missing can be appropriated - most likely through another attempt at a Prop. 2 1/2 override. At last year's Annual Town Meeting election, a $575,000 override measure failed, 60-40 percent.

But, believe it or not, there are other bills to pay in the Town of Wilmington, and Caira's budget will have to cover them all.

After the town manager makes his Monday presentation, it becomes the finance committee's and Chairman George Hooper's turn to take cracks at the town financial outlook.

The fincom will meet Tuesday, Jan. 24 and at that time set their calendar for the forthcoming bustling budget season.

"We will be meeting at my discretion as long as we're in the budget process," Hooper said, indicating that the committee will be much busier during the next three months than their usual once-a-month meeting schedule.

A tentative schedule for the finance committee is as follows.

- Feb. 7: Meeting to discuss revenue.
- Feb. 9: Discussions relative to general government expenditures.

• Feb. 23: Human services discussion.

• Feb. 28: Community development will be the fincom's focus.

• March 2: The committee tackles public safety financing.

• March 7: The public buildings department and the department of public works come to the fore.

• March 9: The committee is planning to discuss debt service, "unclassified" expenditures and statutory charges.

• March 14: The best saved for last? Education becomes the topic of discussion.

Prior to these fincom meetings, committee members assigned to each area will be meeting with the respective town boards, Hooper said. At that time, each group will provide a "wish list" to the fincom member, according to Hooper, who said "And then we see what the bottom line is - how much money we got."

The finance committee will then hold a public hearing March 21 with the planning board to discuss proposed zoning by-law amendments.

Their last meeting is tentatively set for March 23, at which time the committee as a whole will vote on the entire budget before presenting it to the board of selectmen, who will vote to sign the budget for presentation to Annual Town Meeting.

Selectmen, in the meantime, will vote Feb. 27 their intention to layout the ways described in the proposed Town Meeting article. At the regularly scheduled March 13 selectmen's meeting, the board will hold a public hearing regarding the acceptance of streets.

Celebrating Christian unity

Several local church congregations and their clergy, representing Christian denominations throughout the area, will come together for an Ecumenical Celebration of the Word of God on Sunday, January 22.

An ethnic and intercultural potluck supper beginning at 5 p.m. and the service, which will be held as part of the area's observance of the annual Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, will take place at the Wilmington United Methodist Church on 87 Church St., at 6 p.m. Both the meal and worship celebration will be special. Call 508-658-4519 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday through Friday for information on potluck meal. Folks are invited to prepare favorite ethnic and cultural dishes.

The Rev. Allen Bryan, pastor of the Wilmington United Methodist Church and past Fellow of the Institute of Ecumenical and Cultural Research, will deliver the message "Communion in God-Life Together." Special music will be provided by local choirs and soloists under the direction of Carolyn Stanhope.

Begun in 1908, the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity is celebrated each year in cities and towns across the country and the world. The theme and text for each year's observance of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity are chosen and prepared by representatives of the Pontifical Council for Promoting Christian Unity and representatives of the World Council of Churches.

The Wilmington service is sponsored by the Wilmington Council of Churches. The public is cordially invited.

Shawsheen Tech open house Jan. 25th

"Career Choices for the 21st Century" is the theme for the open house to be held from 6:45 to 9 p.m., Wed., Jan. 25 at Shawsheen Tech.

Designed for eighth grade students and their parents, the evening will begin with an overview in the auditorium by Charles Lyons, superintendent-director and Mark Small, guidance counselor. Then students will explore three vocational technical areas and attend one session or orientation with counselors to discuss academic programs and career opportunities.

Shawsheen Tech's 21 technical programs offer students pathways to jobs of the future, asserts John F. McDermott, assistant superintendent for community services. "Shawsheen is now offering a telecommunications program to prepare students for a new and emerging field," said McDermott, as well as state of the art technology in all other programs.

New economy

"The internet, the global marketplace, will affect us all and a new economy is evolving from the information age," he said. "There is a whole new shift and it will hit our kids," he noted. Part of the shift is the death of many middle class jobs and a need for people to train or retrain for tomorrow's technology, which McDermott says will be based on the information economy. Although service occupations remain strong, "the money segment will be in research and development, telecommunications, biomedical and other health related jobs," he predicts.

As the world is changing, however, McDermott notes that the focus must also move away from the traditional American Dream of making a lot of money and accumulating possessions. "We have got to change the American Dream and refocus our values from obtaining material goods to the value of who we are and what we do; it must be based on self-worth."

McDermott also notes that the Commissioner of Education's School-to-Work report for Mass. indicates that "70 percent of our population does not attain a baccalaureate degree. This is in line with the U.S. census figure of 28 percent who graduate from college." Although a degree is not required for most jobs of the future, technical skills are, McDermott added.

West claims 3rd in Stock Market Game

Equities, dividends, growth - familiar vocabulary words for eighth grade business class students at Wilmington's West Intermediate School. They learned the definitions and a team of students applied their new found skills to capture third place in the 1994 Boston Globe Stock Market Game!

WIS students competed with 393 other teams throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, reading, interpreting, analyzing quotes found in the New York Stock Exchange, American Exchange and NASDAQ listings. Students also learned to identify critical events affecting a given industry; familiarized themselves with international economics and its effect on the United States; gained an understanding of how the news impacts the stock market, and in the process became acquainted with careers in the investment world.

Each team was given a simulated $100,000 portfolio at the start of the game. Teams with the highest valued portfolios of Massachusetts entrants at the end of the 10 week game were declared the winners.

The team from the West to claim third position in the Middle School level (and fifth place in the level which includes high schools): KellyAnn Cochran, capt., Terrance Boland, Kenneth Branley, Denise Gilardi, Joseph Grasso.

These students and their teacher, Mrs. Simmons, have been invited by the Boston Globe to join other successful participants at a luncheon to be given in honor of their accomplishments.

WRITE OFF JOB HUNTING COSTS

In a perfect world, everyone would have a terrific job. Even then, some folks would be out looking for a better one. What you should know is that you can deduct job hunting costs, even if not successful.

The ground rules are these: you must be looking for a new job in the same trade or business you're in. Costs cannot be written off for first job hunts or after long periods of unemployment.

You can deduct: the cost of producing and mailing resumes to prospective employers; the cost of newspapers or trade journals you buy for the want ads; fees of employment agencies and career counselors; costs incurred for courses to improve skills required in your field; travel expenses to job interviews; and even legal and accounting fees to check over employment contracts.

It's important to document all expenses, especially for out-of-town trips for interviews and job hunts that don't pan out. Keep records of everything you spend and everyone you see.

You'll find the answers to your tax questions at

It's water over the dam

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen will probably make public the reports from the town counsel and chief of police regarding the Wilmington Water and Sewer Department. There will be allegations of gambling, theft, misappropriations, use of town equipment on private jobs and illegal disposal of hazardous materials.

There will reportedly be a recommendation that no further action be taken by the town or the courts. To pursue this matter further would take a great deal of time and money that could be otherwise well spent.

The town manager cleaned house in 1991. Several members of the department no longer work there. The department today is not the same department it was then.

There also is the issue that these aren't "bad guys". They are even our friends. No one wants to see a guy who's gone out on New Year's morning, at 10° to dig a hole and fix a broken water main go to jail.

But isn't there a lesson to be learned? Are we sending the wrong message? Is it OK to pilfer from the town? Of course not! But if you do, should you get away with it?

This time, only this time, the ax will not fall. There is a lesson to be learned by all employees, whether they work for the town or the county, the state or in the private sector: money is tight and the someone will be watching. If you are in the habit of taking paper clips home, be warned: someone is watching. In the case of the Town of Wilmington, the next person caught with his or her fingers in the cookie jar will be slapped hard. The town manager is a fair and just man, he'll be fair, just once.

A new ball game

by George R. Allan
It looks like a whole new ball game. Not on the baseball diamond but in Washington. The Newt Gingrich and Sonny Bono Congress doesn't exactly install confidence in me. However, it appears that the Republicans will take a new approach with environmental regulations. An approach that many people (even Democrats) will probably embrace.

Surveys have shown that protecting the environment is one of the top three issues of concern to most Americans. And well it should be. Over the last 10 years, however, the pendulum has swung too far off center. Extreme groups grab the media spotlight and drive the national environmental agenda. Cost does not matter. Wave the environmental flag and move forward. It looks as though the current Congress is now ready to take another look at some of these issues and weigh the benefits versus the costs. This reassessment is very appropriate and timely.

Both Gingrich and Dole have promised to look at unfunded federal mandates within the first 100 days. What is an unfunded federal mandate? It is a regulation the federal government places on state or local government, but doesn't provide any money to administer the program. As a result, the financial burden is placed on states and towns. A classic example of this is the scarcity of federal dollars for the Boston Harbor Cleanup. A less known example is an EPA requirement that an additional 25 water quality parameters be added to the testing schedule every three years, even if they have not shown to pose a health risk. The thinking seems to be - we have identified them, so let's test for them. So what if millions of dollars are spent each year. House Republicans are proposing language that would prevent federal agencies from enforcing regulations unless the local government has been provided with the needed dollars. It looks good on paper but let's see how it plays out.

The Republican leadership also pledges to promote deregulation at the federal level. It is proposing that any future regulations would need to be justified on a cost/benefit basis. In the past, regulations were drawn up without fiscal or common sense. The bureaucrats were not concerned about the effect on businesses or taxpayers. They were only reacting to the pressure from zealots advocating action on the current hot issue.

The nation's governors seem to be on the same wave length with Congress. They want to prioritize risks and use innovative approaches to solving problems. What is a problem in Massachusetts is not necessarily a problem in California.

A broad brush solution would, therefore, be a waste of money.

Another target on the Republicans' radar screen is the Superfund Program. The last congress fiddled on this as time ran out. The current thinking is that polluters should be given more flexibility in cleaning up contaminated sites. Somebody also should take a look at the poor track record for this 15-year-old program. Bureaucracy and legal maneuvering have so tied up cleanup efforts that only 64 of 1,296 sites on the priority list have been taken off the list. Congress has until September 30, 1995 to fund the program or it grinds to a halt.

The new Congress will bring a new perspective to environmental issues and regulations. It will focus on careful review of the economic ramifications of environmental protection. I didn't vote for these guys, but I like some of the things they are saying. Let's give them the chance to run with the ball. If they fumble, we will have a new team in two years.

10 years ago Wilmington

Funding for a new water treatment plant in North Wilmington would be one of the articles under consideration at the annual Town Meeting to be held in April.

Selectman Bob Cain and Dave Fitzgerald had announced that they would be candidates for selectmen. Mr. Cain was the only selectman up for re-election.

Jay MacFayden and Maria Alpers were named WHS Students of the Month for January.

Dennis P. Moran son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Moran returned from a hockey trip to Sweden and Finland. The holiday trip was made by the Berkshire School Hockey Team December 27-January 5.

The Midget A Hockey Team continued to dominate its division with an 8-0-1 record. Led by the super netminding of goalie John McNally, Wilmington shutout a tough Tewksbury team, 6-0.

Janet Magliozzi of Gunderson Road, was named to the dean's list at Bryant College, Smithfield, R.I. where she was a freshman majoring in business management.

The Alternative Education program, installed to fill a gap between special needs and regular education, was working at WHS. Thirty-nine students were enrolled in the program which School Committeeman Phil Fenton declared "should have been started years ago."

letters to the editor

Term limits in retrospect

Dear Larz:
Back in the days of F.D.R. there was no law on term limits, but there was a "two term" tradition. No man had ever tried to run for more than two terms. Roosevelt must have been happy as a full-functioning person. No matter how many problems he had and forgot or disregarded tradition. Paralyzed and confined to leg braces and a cane, he must have loved being President.

It was reported that those close to him advised against his running again, but he ran anyway. The times led him to believe he was indispensable, which of course, no one person can be. It made any aspirant for a political office apathetic.

It was deemed a sure thing for the incumbent and was challenged by lesser politicians who could not win. The overwhelming support, but uneasy feeling continued and as history proved, ill-health and finally death during a fourth term made "term limits" a strong belief and final vote to change.

Now we have term limits in Massachusetts and although we have many hard working legislators there are limits to their longevity no matter how good they are. They should step aside and give younger people a chance.

Young people bring new ideas and enthusiasm to the job and are in tune with the times. The older politician is in a rut and needs a rest from having to dole out favors for votes. He or she must compromise in the game of politics. Otherwise - see you later!

Term limits will give everybody a chance and is a fair way to go for the future of young people. Also to give some who never had a chance to get a "bite of the apple."

Tewksbury and Wilmington should take a good look at any younger, aspiring candidates. Everyone in politics had to start some time!

Margaret Imbimbo

25 years ago Wilmington

Diana Imbimbo announced that she would seek re-election to the school committee and George Boylen announced his candidacy for re-election to the board of selectmen.

Fred F. Cain was awarded second place for the title "Outstanding Quality Auto Dealer in the U.S. at the National Automobile Dealers' Association convention and exhibition held in Miami. Mr. Cain was the winner in all but one category...the number of new cars sold in 1969. He was bested by O. Willard Noller, a Ford dealer from Topeka, Kansas who unhandd 35 hundred new vehicles during the preceding 12 month period.

Girl Scouts preparing to begin their cookie sale appeared before the board of selectmen seeking the town's "official blessing." They included: Lorry Doucette, Debbie Riddle, Debbie Banda, Ellen O'Rourke and Hope Miceli.

Accompanying them were Mrs. Danny Dindo, Mrs. Barbara Doucette, Mrs. Audrey Riddle, Jimmy Miceli, Mrs. Jane Miceli and Robert Doucette.

Warren Mickle and Donald O'Connell were pictured clearing the ice at the Wilmington Skating Club rink on Chestnut Street.

Richard Cushing was offering free removal of junk cars.

One could renew a local subscription to the Town Crier for $3; out-of-town, $4 and have it sent to a serviceman for an additional $1.

Lucci's Market offered 48 ounces of Crisco Oil for 84 cents; DelMonte cream corn, peas or green beans, five cans for $1 and Hood's ice cream, 88 cents a half gallon.

At Elia's Market, one could purchase wild bird seed at 39 cents a pound; chicken breast quarters, 47 cents a pound and roasting chickens, 39 cents a pound.

10 years ago Tewksbury

The special water study committee, called by the Town Crier a "blue ribbon" committee, because of its makeup, will in all probability have a report ready for the special town meeting of January 21.

St. William's Pastor Fr. Joseph Blaney was pictured as he presented Selectman Paul Sullivan an engraved glass goblet given by the people of Tewksbury, Gloucestershire, England, to the people of the Town of Tewksbury Massachusetts, U.S.A. Fr. Blaney accepted the goblet during a visit to England the previous summer.

Tewksbury's 250th anniversary was celebrated in St. William's Church on December 23 with a program presented by the Interfaith Committee of the town's churches.

Sophomore guard Tim Boudreau scored a career high 25 points to help power the Redmen to victory in the Christmas Basketball Tourney opener.

Barbara Herlihy, R.N. of Trull Road presided at the 13th annual meeting of the Institute of National Remotivation Technique, Organization Inc., held on Long Island, N.Y.

Executive Secretary Ruth Aubert announced that she would retire the post she held for 15 years when her current term expired June 30.

R.W. Electronics of 1442 Main Street was one of seven small business firms in the state included on Inc. magazine's list of the 500 fastest growing firms in the nation.

Saying they wanted "no more delays" a handful of citizens who braved frigid cold to attend town meeting voted 48-12 to fund construction of a 3.5 million gallon per day expandable water treatment plant on the Merrimack River; thus rejecting the water study committee's request for a delay.

Erik A. Eldracher of Campbell Circle, BTU Engineering was spending a semester working in industry as part of the cooperative education program at Wentworth Institute of Technology.

The Mavericks outscored the Bulls 46-26 in Tewksbury Youth Basketball action with Tim Bedard scoring 13 points; Mickey Green 10 and Scott Blades eight.

Thanks, Reading Light

Dear Larz:
"Love thy neighbor" shall never be forgotten, thanks to the Reading Electric Light Company!

I'm a tenant living in the Deming Way Elderly Housing Development in Wilmington. As you already know, we recently had a problem with some vandalism in our parking area, which resulted in slashed tires on the Housing Authority's truck as well as a car that is owned by one of the tenants.

Trying to solve the problem before it became worse, I asked Executive Director Kenneth Dorrance, if it would be possible to call the Reading Electric Light Company, to ask if they would consider installing flood lights, one at either end of the parking area to help curb the problem. Mr. Dorrance had no sooner made the request, when the very next day, I saw the electric light truck installing the lights.

Many thanks to them from all the tenants, especially for the fast response, consideration and the kindness shown to us in our time of need. Now, we can all get a good night's sleep.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Butler
Tenant Commissioner
Wilmington Housing Authority

Healthcare for $7.33 an hour

Dear Larz:
As spokesperson and a human service advocate, I hope I can count on our state representatives and senators to give equal support to cost of living (C.O.L.A.), for direct care workers who are working in the human service field, without any additional cuts to the human service system.

Human service workers are the working poor, earning $16,500 a year, nearly the same amount as our legislators' pay raise.

Could you support yourself and family on $7.33 an hour or $16,500 a year? Many of these workers need to hold down two and at times three jobs to make it in Massachusetts!!!

The support for human service workers is well earned and they deserve C.O.L.A. They have worked for seven years without a raise and are deserving of our legislators' support!

Hopefully, this issue will be first on their agenda for the new year!!!

Sincerely,
Jean K. Walsh, President

T.D. Waffle
283 Old Main St., Tewksbury
(508) 640-9610

T.D. Waffle... where "Breakfast is served all day with More!" And wait 'til you see the breakfasts! Their extensive menu includes waffles, eggs (cooked any style), omelettes, morning sandwiches, pancakes & French toast, and side orders. Try their "Fresh Fruit Waffle" with banana, kiwi, cantaloupe & strawberries, for $4.75. If you're really hungry, there's the "Tewksbury Redmen" - 3 eggs with sirloin tips and waffle - for $6.50.

As for the "More"... T.D. Waffle also offers lunch and dinner. For lunch, choose from soup, salads, and sandwiches. Dinners will bring back memories of home cooking - ziti, lasagna, roast beef or turkey dinner, ham & scalloped potatoes, liver & onions, meat loaf, and include daily specials - corned beef and cabbage on Monday, barbecued sirloin tips, fresh fish or fish and chips on Friday.

It's been only two years since owners Tom Seto ("T") and Dave Donovan ("D") opened T.D. Waffle. It's a family restaurant with a casual and comfortable atmosphere, and courteous, friendly service. Orders are prepared before you on an open grill, and are made with only the freshest ingredients. Even the orange juice comes from a "fresh squeezed OJ" machine. This waffle house is now selling 400-500 waffles each day. In fact, business has been so good that they have plans to open a second restaurant in Burlington.

T.D. Waffle is open Sunday-Thursday: 5:30am to 9pm; and Friday & Saturday: 5:30am to 10pm. They offer a senior citizen meal discount and a children's menu. Their full menu is available for take-out (call (508) 640-9619 or 640-0159 in advance). They're conveniently located at 283 Old Main Street, Tewksbury (off Route 495 on Route 38 East).

Being a dealer for a major manufacturer can be more fun than one might think. Sandy Ford is a John Deere dealer. He sells and lawn tractors, lawn mowers and the necessary accessories and fun. It's a family business, his wife Aurora and four children (ages 12, 9, 6 and 5) all have a part in it. The children love to wash and park the riding tractors outside for display. The tractor that "needs" the most driving always seems to go first.

Sandy has been amazed a few times by the company that backs him. A few weeks ago a customer came in looking for a part for a 25 year old Deere. Sandy looked it up and "By gosh - it was there!" "We had it shipped in overnight and the machine was running the next day!" When he asked if it was time for a new machine the customer replied, "Nope, it's still workin' fine."

"It's the service," Sandy says. "Making people happy about owning a John Deere." All the products from John Deere carry a 2 year warranty and Sandy insisted on a 2 year warranty from every manufacturer of the side line items he carries. The gas powered line trimmer, the chipper, or any other machine is covered for 2 years! He also boasts of the 30 day money back policy. If you're not satisfied with your John Deere, bring it back for a refund or replacement. No hassle.

Just for fun they carry toys. Model tractors and trucks and all. Some your kids can ride and some that need a push and some you won't let them touch. John Deere makes a "Precision Classics" line of detailed antique replicas which sell for $150.00 new. Collectors snatch them up fast. The only one Sandy has in stock right now is a 1936 Model A John Riding a Deere are (l to r) Aurora Ford, Sandy Ford (standing), chief mechanic Rodel Olvido and mechanic Dan Robbins.

Deere with a six row harrow attached.

You've heard the ads on TV and radio about "Deere Season." Well, that's over now and it's time for service on your Deere. Free pick-up and delivery in Tewksbury and Wilmington makes it easy to keep your Deere in top shape. Call for prompt courteous service: (508) 694-9920

During the deepest, darkest, coldest months of the winter the Wilmington Minutemen have found it very uncomfortable to meet at their headquarters in North Wilmington. It is heated by only a wood stove. One bright member suggested years ago that the meeting be held at a local restaurant, one with a "colonial aire." Thus has been the tradition, so even though the temperature was quite moderate they met at a pub on Thursday evening. Maggie McKeever's hosted the men to their repast. Following the meeting they posed with their hostess, Cheryl Fahey. Left to right standing are (Readcoat) Dale Paulsen, Bob Ethier, Erik Neilson, Mack Downs, Peter Newman, Cheryl Fahey, Mike Shine, Dave Edwards and Mike Curley. Seated or kneeling are Jerome Connor, Jim Stewart, Bill Hitchcock, Steve Leet, Frank Curley and Jim Murray.

The Wilmington Minutemen will be hosting a Colonial Ball on February 25 at the Sons of Italy Hall. It will be open to the public. Anyone wishing to rub colonial elbows with minutemen (and a few Redcoats) from all over New England can call 657-0209 for ticket information.

Bruce N. Morang editor of Reading Chronicle

Bruce N. Morang, 64 of North Reading, editor of the Reading Chronicle for 27 years, died of cancer on January 11, 1995.

Bruce started his life long newspaper career with the Wakefield Daily Item where, for 10 years, he was the advertising manager. When the Haggerty family, owners of the Woburn Daily Times, purchased the Reading Chronicle, Bruce became the editor. He was a tireless worker on behalf of citizens of Reading and was the author of a column, "Bennett Noble," that recounted personal stories about his family and experiences. These columns were among his writings honored with awards from the New England Press Association.

Of the many organizations he was affiliated with, the two that brought him greatest joy were the Quannapowitt Yacht Club of Wakefield, of which he was a past commodore, and the Friendship Sloop Society of Friendship, Maine, where he raced for 17 years, then served as race committee chairman for another 10 years.

Bruce was a graduate of Wakefield High School in 1947, and of Boston University School of Journalism in 1951. He served in the U.S. Air Force.

Born in Norwood, he was the son of the late Kenneth E. and M. Beatrice (Sweeney) Morang. He lived most of his life in Wakefield before moving to North Reading 15 years ago.

He is survived by his wife Marcia (Vannah) Morang; daughter Penny J. Richards and her husband David and their daughter Penny Jean of North Reading, daughter Kelly Morang Quinn and her husband William of Reading and son Ted N. Morang and his wife Cynthia and their sons Ted Jr. and Thomas of Wilmington. He is also survived by a brother Kenneth E. Morang Jr. of Nobleboro, Maine, a sister, Nancy Morang Thornton of Bradford, brothers-in-law Michael Thornton of Bradford and George Oliver of Florida. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Bruce's true passion was for books and for reading. He was the author of "A Town that Went to War," a chronicle of the men from the towns of Reading, North Reading and Wakefield, and their participation in the American Revolution.

His family asks that friends, in keeping with his wish, make a contribution to the Reading Public Library, the North Reading Flint Memorial Library, or the library of one's choice, for the purchase of books. By honoring his desire, the love of reading may be nurtured and grow in others.

A memorial service was held Saturday, Jan. 14 at 2 p.m.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the McDonald Funeral Home of Wakefield.

Maritime Archaeology anyone?

by Capt. Larz Neilson
Brett Phaneuf, a Wilmington resident, is very much interested in Marine Archaeology. He lives on Nichols Street, and is one of five persons who have recently formed the Institute of Maritime History, in Cape Neddick in the State of Maine. (Post Office Box 130, Cape Neddick, Maine 03902).

Brett is home for a few days from Texas where he is attending the Texas A & M University at which place he hopes to earn a Master's Degree.

All five members of the Institute are graduate students. Brett is the Chairman of the Board. They hope to publish their first newsletter in May.

At that time all will be in Maine, starting on their first historical excavation. Their subject is an old wreck, an 18th century sloop. It has never been studied. The work will be completely unique.

The group hopes the study will provide a lot of information about the economy, and about ship construction in the days before Paul Revere went galloping off into Middlesex County.

The members of the company will probably remain in Maine, but Brett has other studies in which he is also interested, and on which he will be working, sooner or later.

African studies find him intensely interested. He has studied in many parts of Tunisia and in ancient Carthage. He has been in Madeira, and in the fall of 1995 he expects to be in the Canary Islands, looking for ancient shipwrecks. He will be, at that time, the Director of the American Team, in Research.

Brett has hopes of getting mail from persons who may be interested in archaeology. He, too would like to get mail from persons interested in making contributions. The Institute of Maritime History is, of course, a charity.

CRUISE MONTH

Hi Folks:
I just want you to know that we had the best time in Bermuda and on board The Song of America! The weather was fantastic, Bermuda was beautiful and the food was "very fattening," but delicious. I even won some money in the casino.

We thank you for your generosity in sending wine and champagne to all of us. The wine steward did a super job serving us. All in all it was "the time of our lives."

Thanks again! R. and N. L.

Medford Savings wraps up winter coat drive

Over 700 coats were collected during Medford Savings Bank's month long winter coat drive for the homeless.

The coats were collected at the 15 branch locations of Medford Savings Bank during the month of October. "The enthusiasm of the branch staff was infectious, the positive spirit of wanting to help the homeless spread from the employees to the customers and made the coat drive an overwhelming success" said Terry Harper, special programs coordinator.

The coat drive was sponsored by the bank as part of a series of good deed drives to commemorate the bank's 125th anniversary of serving the needs of the community.

Medford Savings Bank has a solid history of financial strength and commitment to the communities it serves. The bank offers a wide variety of special programs and services to its customers throughout eastern Massachusetts.

Chimney fires are nothing new

by Capt. Larz Neilson
Recently published in this paper was an article in which the chief of the Wilmington Fire Department warned against chimney fires. Chief Stewart recommended that householders have their chimneys checked before the heating season starts. Last year, he reported, had four chimney fires of which three were in December.

Let us discuss chimney fires of many years ago. Before the age of fuel oil, chimney fires were frequent. Coal was used, in nearly every family furnace. Three merchants sold coal to families of Wilmington. Another merchant went from home to home selling kerosene, in one gallon containers, to help in the kitchen stove. Many ladies thought that was nice.

In 1926 the fire chief, a gentleman named Edwin L. Day reported 156 fires. Twenty were chimney fires, 14 were building fires, 113 were grass and brush fires and there were a few others.

Hot pieces of what was coal dust were carried out of the chimney flue by the heat, and deposited on the flue wall, where frequently they caught fire.

There was one fire in January 1926, four in February, four in March and none in April. This in a town of less than a thousand homes. There was one in May, two in June, one in July, none in August, one in September (at the home of Ed Nelson Eames, on Church Street) none in October or November, and one in December. That last one was at the home of "Miss Georgie Crockett," on Burlington Avenue.

"Miss Georgie Crockett" was better known as George MAM, Crockett. She was a teacher in Wilmington High School and later married Stanley Webber, when she became George M.A.M. Webber. The story has already been told in this paper of her grandmother, Mary Ann McIntosh, who was caught in New Orleans during the Civil War, and eventually got her children to Wilmington, by going up the Mississippi River.

Chimney fires were a common event, if properly handled.

This writer believes it was salt which provided the answer. Maybe it was something else.

The writer recalls an occasion of a chimney fire in his parents home. While his mother was calling the fire department his father went down stairs and threw something (salt?) on the fire, and the chimney fire was out. The fire department had what may be termed an "empty" run.

But maybe the horses needed the exercise.

TMHS students attend live theater production

Taking advantage of the proximity of professional theater at the Merrimack Repertory Theater in Lowell, 80 Tewksbury Memorial High School juniors recently attended a production of "Holiday Memories" a play based on two of Truman Capote short stories. Set during the depression, the play tells the story of the friendship between the then seven year old Capote and an eccentric spinster cousin and their preparations for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

This field trip served to enhance the American literature curriculum as well as provide students with a live theater experience.

DOG DAYS?

While most realtors are animal lovers and have pets of their own, we have all shared stories of having our fingers or ankles nipped by furry creatures while showing a listing. We have opened the door to a home that we are showing, only to have a purebred Persian kitten scoot through our legs toward the nearest busy street.

If you have pets, and you are about to put your house on the market, work out the showing arrangements carefully. It is important that we are able to communicate to our colleagues what to expect when they pass through your front door. While it is rare for pets to pose significant problems, very big dogs can be menacing. Occasionally buyers or agents are allergic or even a little phobic about dogs or cats. It can be difficult to get a buyer excited about the possibility of living in your home if he is sneezing continuously or cowering in a corner because he is afraid of Fido. If we know there might be a problem, we can arrange ahead of time for you to walk the dog, vacuum the cat dander or do whatever is necessary to make sure the showing goes smoothly.

For professional advice on buying or selling real estate, please drop by our office in the Starwood Building at 299 Main Street, or call us at 657-8444.

Jinx puts Kivlehan on shelf for four weeks

by James Pote
It must have been the Friday the 13th jinx.

The Wilmington High School boys basketball team star shooting guard Dan Kivlehan, separated his shoulder in the 63-54 loss to Lawrence this past Friday night. He will be out for a minimum of four weeks to a maximum of eight weeks.

"I feel so bad for Dan. He worked so hard to get where he is and then this happens. I really feel bad," said an extremely disappointed and speechless head coach Jim McCune.

With less than a minute left to play in the first half, Kivlehan went up for the ball and landed on the back part of his shoulder which popped out his right and his shooting arm shoulder. That was a huge set back for the Cats because at that time Kivlehan and teammate Doug Olander were enjoying a fantastic first half. The two combined for 79 percent of the team's offense as they scored 22 of the team's 28 first half points.

In that first half, the Cats were playing pretty strong and they went to the lockerroom down by one point. In the lockerroom, McCune was looking for someone to step up - a situation he will be looking at for the rest of the season. Someone to step up and help the already needful offense.

Four players tried to help out but they came up short. Paul Bruno led the second half surge with eight points to give him ten for the night.

Dave DeSantis, Paul Heigham and Scott Swierzynski all scored four points in the second half. Olander netted four more to give him 17 on the night.

Indeed McCune found a few players to step up when they took on Chelmsford on Tuesday night. Even though they lost 65-56 which included trailing by 14 at one time, McCune was still happy of what he saw.

"It was a real good effort tonight. We played very tough in the second half we just didn't hit our free throws."

Point guard Dave DeSantis came on real strong as he ended the night with 21 points. Paul Bruno was a big help with 13 points and 13 rebounds. But, one of the biggest surprises of the night went to senior Pat Cahill who helped out tremendously in the second half when he hit his share of free throws and he played his share of solid defense as he ended the night with eight points.

"All three of them played excellent. Pat Cahill was a big surprise and he really stepped up," McCune said.

In the second half, the Cats showed life when they resulted in a full court pressure attack which really turned the offensive side around. But, the biggest part of that comeback was the fact that the Lions were 16-20 from the line and the Cats were 15-24. And that was the game.

No, it's that way! Last Friday night at the halftime mark of the WHS girls basketball game, the WRBL sent two teams the Miami Hurricanes and the Syracuse Orangemen to play in a eight minute game on the WHS parkay. Shown here for the Miami team is Stephen Crawford (number one) and Derek Hanley (number two). (Photo by Anne DuLong).

Girls squander big lead

by James Pote
After playing one of their best halves of the season and then leading up to as many as ten points, the Wilmington High School girls basketball team couldn't hold on to that lead against Lawrence, as they lost by a score of 45-43. One of the biggest reasons why they couldn't pull out the win when the team combined for three for 12 from the free throw line in the second half.

"That really hurt us [going 3-12 from the free throw line]. I thought we really played well in the first half. Our shot selection was good and our press was working. The foul shots really hurt us," said a disappointed head coach Jim Tildsley.

With the score tied at 40, Jaime Forgett hit two of her team high eight points to give her teammates a two point lead. Just after Lawrence hit a jump shot, Lisa Southmayd was fouled and she was sent to the line where she hit one of her two to give Wilmington a 43-42 lead with exactly one minute left to play.

The score remained the same until Lawrence hit a basket with 15 seconds left to give them the one point edge. Wilmington then committed a foul to send Lawrence back to the line where they only sank in one of the two freebies to give Wilmington a last chance with four seconds remaining - the last second heroic shot didn't fall in for the Cats as they lost a close one to put their record to 5-6 overall.

"This was a tough game to lose. They are a good team. Everyone contributed and our defense played well - we just couldn't pull it out," Tildsley said.

Forgett and freshman Rebecca Rodgers led the team with eight points each. The latter has switched from her usual center position to small forward - a move that has helped the team out tremendously. But, Tildsley also said the team is going through some changes and it is not known who will go end up where.

Jacqui Holloway ended the game with six points with Renee Vachon at four and Leanne Harris and Jacqui Hayden followed up with three each.

On Tuesday night, the girls had a lot of trouble in the first half against Chelmsford where they couldn't hit a lay up - as they missed more than a few chances in their 47-36 loss.

The girls were totally blown out by the scoreboard in the first half but if they had hit their lay ups they would have been right in the game.

"We can't hit the ocean. We played a better second half but we just had trouble shooting. Maybe the break will do us good because it's getting discouraging," Tildsley said.

The second half was a better outcome as the girls rallied but were held off to make their record now stand at 5-7 overall.

The Cats were led by Leanne Harris with nine points and Erin Falzone right behind her with seven. As for the boards, Rebecca Rodgers led with seven.

This upcoming Friday the girls have a bye and they will travel to Andover on Tuesday night.

WHS freshman Rebecca Rodgers has been a n impressive and pleasant surprise thus far for the girls basketball team. Here she is set to heave up one of her freebie shots in the loss against Lawrence on Friday night. (Photo by Anne DuLong).

The WHS boys basketball team was starting to get some consistent efforts from their offense until Friday night when guard Dan Kivlehan went down with a dislocated shoulder. He will be out for a minimum of four weeks. (Photo by Anne DuLong).

Thus far the team is 1-2 and their next meets are coming up against Andover on Friday and then Billerica on Monday.

Torpey leads way

Led by a four point performance by Dennis Torpey, the Wilmington High School ice hockey team was back up to par as the beat Dracut by a 6-2 margin at Ristuccia Exposition on Saturday afternoon.

Torpey, scored a goal and had three assists to help his teammates get over a two game losing streak in which they were outscored 11-0.

Jamie Caples opened up the scoring on a nice set up by Torpey for the 1-0 lead. Mike Barry scored 40 seconds later on an assist from Matt Calendrello. Dracut scored on an incredible slap shot from Chris Sawyer to cut the lead in half even though the Wildcats dominated the first period with a 12-1 margin in shots.

Again Wilmington dominated in the second period as they added another 20 shots on all-star goalie Randy St. Hillaire. Torpey scored the lone goal of the period with an assist to sophomore Danny Abbott.

In the third period, Wilmington broke open the game with three goals to give them a win to increase their overall record to 5-3. Jamie Caples scored his second of the game and the first of the three with an assist to captain John Lynch. Lynch scored the second from a set up by Torpey. And Charlie Ross scored the last one with assist given to Abbott and Torpey.

Wilmington's netminder Jason Dango came up with seven saves while his counterpart came up with 35.

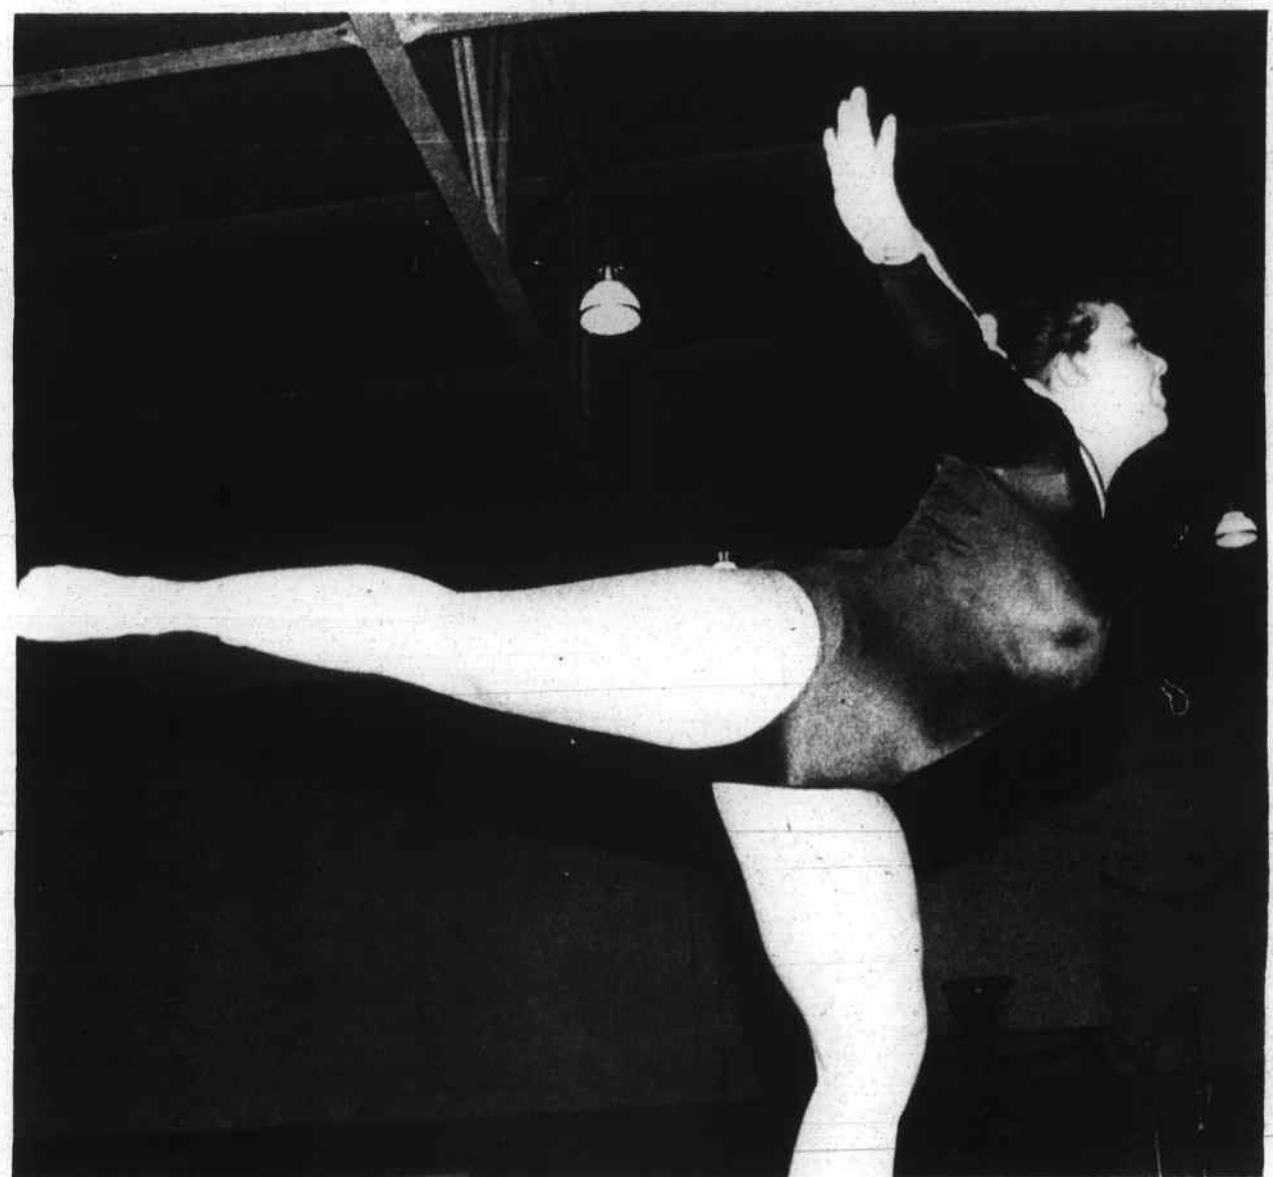

The team has a bye this coming Wednesday before going on the road to Haverhill, Tewksbury and Lowell before coming home on February first against Chelmsford.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

HOME MOST DANGEROUS

QUESTION: Just how prone is a person to have an accident at home rather than on the job?

ANSWER: Last year, more than 30,000 people were accidentally killed at home and some 5 million suffered disabling injuries. Even factories full of treacherous machinery and poisonous chemicals consistently come up with safety records superior to that of our homes. In fact, you are twice as likely to be killed at home as on the job.

The reason is that the home has two accident-prone age groups that businesses don't — children and the elderly. Youngsters under four and persons over 65 account for 70% of accidental deaths at home.

OVER 30,000 were accidentally killed in their homes last year. Young and old are most at risk.

Squirt C's go into overtime in semi-finals

by James Pote

It was almost a perfect weekend for the Wilmington Squirt C Youth Hockey team.

On Saturday morning, the team traveled to Somerville, where they played in the District State Play-down Tournament. They came inches away from going to the finals.

In the first game against Melrose, the Wildcats put in four quick goals for a 4-0 lead after one period. Mike Senarian netted the first which was assisted by Matt Collins and Eric Jacobs. The second goal was scored by Matt Collins and that one was unassisted. The third goal was scored by Steve O'Dea on a fantastic rush which was helped out by Tom Anderson. And the last goal of the period was by Chris Capozzi which was assisted by linemate Tom Doyle.

In the second period, the Cats lifted their lead to 5-0 on Chris Capozzi's second goal of the game which was assisted by Jon Roman.

In the final period, the Cats tacked on three more for the 8-0 victory to advance them to the semi-finals against a very highly touted Medford team. Matt Collins scored two goals on the third period to give him a hatrick on the day. His first goal was set up by Tom Doyle and Tom Anderson. Collins' second goal was unassisted and the final goal of the game went to Tim Rose with assists to Eric Jacobs and goaltender, yes goaltender, Paul Sferrezza.

Speaking of Paul, there isn't enough adjectives in the dictionary to express how well Paul played - most especially in the game against Medford.

Medford was seeded first in the tournament, and with their enormous numbers of kids to choose from - they were able to send two Squirt C teams to the tourney. So Wilmington was up for the challenge and boy did they deliver.

The first period was scoreless and Matt Collins scored the first goal with a few minutes left in the second period. Medford came back and scored two goals and with five minutes left in the game, Tim Rose scored the tying goal. That meant overtime.

In two and half minutes remaining in the five minute overtime period, Medford was able to score the winning goal in after it ricocheted off of Paul Sferrezza's stick.

This game was probably the best youth hockey game played in a long time. Both teams played excellent - Sferrezza again as usual played outstanding - making stick saves, glove saves, blocker saves and every kind of save possible he could have made.

The entire team played tremendous throughout the tourney even though they were short a few players. The defensive crew of Steve O'Dea, Tom Anderson, T.J. Duggan and Eric Jacobs solidified the blue line as they played just unbelievable throughout the tourney.

As for the forwards both lines played extremely well together as they continued to improve on their skating and most especially their passing as they continue to show how they play together as a team.

The combination of Matt Collins, Mike Senarian and Tim Rose worked very hard. As did the combination of Chris Capozzi, Tom Doyle and Jon Roman, who all showed non-stop hustle. And don't forget Brian Gillespie, who missed the first game and played very hard in the second to help his teammates out.

On Monday morning, the team completed its fantastic weekend with a close nailbiting win over Woburn by a score of 4-3.

Wilmington had a 4-1 lead until five minutes left in the game where Woburn rallied for two quick goals to make it 4-3. Luckily, Wilmington hung on despite another fine performance by Paul Sferrezza in between the pipes.

As for the goals, Tim Rose scored the first two goals with assists to Mike Senarian on the first and Senarian and T.J. Duggan on the second. Steve Pellerin scored on a nice give and go with linemate Billy Sinopoli with another assist going to Tom Anderson, who continued to demonstrate solid defense in his new position.

The final goal and the game winner was by Sinopoli on a perfect move as he beat the defender and went around the goalie for a backhand which put Wilmington over the edge with an overall record of 6-5-4.

Also playing well in the game was defenseman Steve O'Dea as well as Steve Pellerin and Tom Doyle.

Mite B's surpass Beverly

Wilmington 3 Beverly 2

The Wilmington Mite B Youth Hockey team played its third exciting game since the change to the Navy Division of the Valley League. The Wildcats started fast with many scoring chances.

Dean Smith had a breakaway but the Beverly goalie made a great save on him to keep the game scoreless. Ray Bennett was in the Wilmington net and he was also hot as he was turning away all the Beverly shots.

Midway through the first period, the Wildcats hard play paid off as Zack Wilkins' great fore checking enabled him to make a great pass to Timmy Aldrich who then gave Wilmington a 1-0 lead on a nice goal.

The Wildcats continued strong at the start of the second period with Bryant Buck's fine play keeping the puck in Beverly's end and shots by Richie Buckley, Joe Pino and Eddie Lopez jut missing. The Wildcats then laid back a bit and Beverly took advantage of that with two quick goals for a 2-1 lead.

The Mite B's came out charging in the third period, and in 21 seconds, Jimmy Fitzpatrick tied up the game with his first goal of the season, on a shot just inside the post. Play continued up and down the ice, with Ray Bennett calmly controlling all the shots fired at him.

With less than two minutes left in the game, the Wildcats mounted one last assault on the Beverly goal. Zack Wilkins, playing his best game of the season, controlled the puck on the faceoff and shot on net.

Dean Smith was parked in front and calmly put the rebound home for a 3-2 lead with 1:30 left in the game. The game was far from over though, as Wilmington received a penalty and Beverly pulled its goalie.

The defense was up to the task, as Timmy Madden, Scott Rivers, Jonathan Berkeley and Kevin Valardo kept the puck out of Wilmington's end to preserve the victory.

Squirt A's offense is riding high

Wilmington 6 Woburn 3

Sunday, January 15, the Wilmington Squirt A Hockey Team defeated the Woburn Tanners by a six to three score. This was a solid all around team effort by the Wildcats who had five different players score.

The Wildcats took the lead with 1:12 remaining in the first period. Pat Cushing threaded a pass ahead to Casey Duggan. Duggan broke past the Woburn defensemen and tucked a backhand shot past the Woburn goaltender for a 1-0 lead.

In the second period Woburn tied the game at one al land then with three minutes remaining, momentarily took a two to one lead on a power play goal.

It took the Wildcats just 10 seconds to respond as they roared in off the ensuing faceoff. Ryan Higgins notched the Wildcats' second goal assisted by Brian Velardo and Duggan.

Wilmington struck twice more before the second period ended. First Jack Webb, assisted by Cushing and Duggan, scored over a pile of players in front of the Woburn net. Then with just 23 seconds remaining in the period, David Velardo took a lead pass from Joe Luciano and squeezed a shot past the Tanner goalie to make it four to two Wildcats.

In the third period the Tanners added a second power play goal to make it four to three, but the Wildcats were just too strong. Ryan Higgins added an insurance goal to make it five to three Wilmington. Defensemen Greg Buck and Matt Porter assisted on Higgins' second tally of the day.

Higgins then closed out the day's scoring with his 10th assist of the regular season. Higgins carried the puck out of the Wildcat zone and set up Pat Cushing for an empty net goal with 37 seconds remaining to make the final score six to three Wildcats.

Goaltender Justin Brady played a solid game in net stopping 12 Woburn shots. Also playing well for the Wildcats, but left off the scoresheet were defensemen Brian Aldrich and Brian Martiniello and wingers Danny Liberty, Chuck DiDomenico and Ryan Layton.

The camp is for boys ages eight-18, and features instruction from the New England Patriots and top college coaches.

"Our goal is to teach the boys a lot of football while having a great time," Guyton said. "Our main goal is to send each boy home a better citizen or person with a more positive outlook on life. We try to teach them that football is not the ultimate end of life," Guyton said.

Guyton's program will be held July 3-8 at Bridgewater State College, located in Bridgewater, Massachusetts.

New England Patriots scheduled to instruct at the camp include: Drew Bledsoe, Chris Slade, Ben Coates, Kevin Turner, Bob Kratch, Corwin Brown, Aaron Jones, Todd Collins, and Ronnie Harris. Seventh grade hoop action

The Wilmington seventh grade traveling basketball team learned that the pendulum swings both ways. After being victorious last week the team bowed to two front runner teams.

Against neighboring Tewksbury the Wildcats went down in defeat 66-46. Though a strong adversary the boys played relentless ball against Tewksbury.

All season coaches Aciero and Tildsley have stressed the strength of defense but in trying to score the defense slacked enabling the Redmen to use their height and muscle, but the team didn't give up.

Joey Kane scamped around putting in two nice shots, Marty Tildsley brought the ball to his court and sunk it for six points. Mark Rappoli swatting away the opponents rebounds got himself six points.

Darren Aciero everywhere on the floor switching from offense to defense led with 12 points. Danny Keating kept popping up to remain Tewksbury they had to work for the baskets. Martin DeAngelo, Sean Quigley, Jason Thresher, Jimmy Rourke and Eric Swieczynski all scored. Ryan O'Donnell's moves showed his dedication to making his mark on defense.

On Sunday, the team might have felt a cloud was left over from the previous night's game when Lowell trounced them 47-18. Lowell launched an unanswered attack for the first six minutes of play. Coach Aciero called a time out and Coach Tildsley tried to settle down the players. It was an uphill battle never to get closer than nine points.

The team played good defense getting rebounds, swatting away inbound passes, stealing the ball and double teaming causing the Highlanders to travel without benefit of frequent flyer miles. But offensively it was like putting the square peg in the round hole.

Too many times the ball wobbled around the ring and fell out not in, frustrating the young hoopsters. When the final buzzer rang the boys were disappointed at the loss but not discouraged knowing they had faced a good team. Here's the list of scorers for the game against Lowell.

D. Aciero 2; M. DeAngelo 1; R. O'Donnell, 2; S. Quigley, 4; E. Swieczynski, 5; M. Tildsley, 4.

Though Tewksbury scored four goals against Andover Saturday, this was not one of them, as missed opportunities came back to haunt the team in the last-second loss. Senior Co-captain Claude Drevet assisted on both Tewksbury goals in the last four minutes to tie the game, pushing his team-high point total to 14 (photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

Botto lights lamp for UMass Lowell

by Jeff Nazzaro

Former Tewksbury High School standout defenseman Paul Botto notched his first goal of the season for the division one UMass Lowell River Hawks hockey club Sunday night in a 9-0 blowout of Hockey East rival Merrimack College played in North Andover.

Botto, who played varsity hockey at Tewksbury for three seasons under coaches Bob McCabe and then Don Ciampa, is playing in his third campaign for the River Hawks after transferring from division three St. Bonaventure following his freshman year.

His goal came in the third period after he joined junior left wing Christian Sbrocca on a two-on-one rush. Sbrocca, Lowell's second leading scorer, drew the lone Merrimack defender and fed Botto, who hit the post, then collected his own rebound and stuffed it home.

Botto, a senior exercise physiology major, saw limited action as a sophomore under head coach and former Boston Bruin Bruce Crowder. Last season, Botto appeared in 27 games, including one in the NCAA West Regional Tournament played at Michigan State, when Lowell dropped a heartbreaking, two overtime contest to Minnesota in the quarterfinals after beating the host MSU Spartans.

Botto scored his first division one collegiate goal as a junior, scoring in a 6-3 loss at the University of New Hampshire.

This season, as one of only three seniors on the team, Botto has seen even more ice, taking regular defensive shifts and participating on power play and penalty killing units.

Botto and his UMass Lowell teammates - including sophomore Greg Bullock, the nation's leading scorer - play home games at the Tully Forum in Billerica. The next home game for the fourth place River Hawks (6-4-1, 11-9-3 overall) is Saturday, when they take on Hockey East rival New Hampshire at 7:00 at the Forum.

This treatment will NEVER replace the Band-Aid

by Bill Conlon

In the Olden Days, medicine was not quite so sophisticated as it is today. Not quite, but there were a few good points.

Back then, bleeding was accepted as a standard treatment, to relieve a perceived overabundance in one of the four "humors" of the body. George Washington, it is believed, died as a result of being overbled in the name of medical treatment.

On the other hand, live leeches were used to drain blood from the skin, such as relief of bruises. Live leeches are again being studied as a viable medical treatment, because they work exactly as advertised. No side effects, no anesthesia needed, and the leeches don't have to pay for their new sports cars, either.

Another belief held that deadly vapors -- called miasmas -- seeped out of the ground in places such as swamps, causing disease. Of course we know today that diseases are caused by micro-organisms, but ask yourself if this sticky weather isn't starting to make you feel a little ill. Just a little? Lately we've seen all sorts of fogs and ground mists, and I've learned from my favorite pharmacy technician that they're selling lots of antibiotics lately. Is it a pestilential miasma, oozing out of the ground that shouldn't be this warm in January, causing sickness? Stay tuned.

We've also discovered that the old joke about "Jewish penicillin" does indeed have a medical basis. Hot chicken soup is now proven to be an effective treatment for the common cold, and the vapors from the soup contain a chemical very similar to one prescribed for colds. Luckily, no doctor's prescription is required for a bowl of hot chicken soup.

Scientists are scouring the jungles in search of natural substances that can be used for treating assorted illnesses, and one of the first people the scientists visit is the medicine man. As an example, the poison that natives use on their arrows, which comes by rubbing the arrowhead on the skin of a little jungle frog, is now being used as an anesthetic.

For generations we laughed at the idea of some old man wearing a mask, shaking rattles and smearing a sick native with some paste made of ground-up beetles as a treatment for illness, but now we don't laugh at that picture anymore. In fact, we spend millions trying to find out just what the heck is in that paste. The list of "folk remedies" is long, including plants found right in our backyard, so modern medicine has much to learn from the "old wive's tales" that we used to laugh about.

But this week, no less respected a publication than the Wall Street Journal had a story that caught my eye. You may need to brace yourself for this one ...

An archaic form of treatment for gangrene is being tried again, and it works exceedingly well -- maggots.

Yup, that wiggling rice you find in the bottom of your summertime trash can is being rediscovered as an outrageously effective treatment for gangrene and other problems.

Maggots, simple housefly larvae, eat only dead tissue while turning up their (um...) noses at live tissue. They'll clean out a gangrenous spot much more cleanly and efficiently than any surgeon, and their waste is rich in ammonia, which acts as a natural disinfectant for the wound. Less scarring, no anesthesia, and it isn't hard to find maggots willing to volunteer for the job.

The Wall Street Journal story cites the story of a diabetic 59-year-old man in a California veteran's hospital, whose leg was salvaged by the use of maggots although the VA doctors were ready to amputate. In another incident, in England, a man was involved in a car accident and wasn't found for three days, but the maggots had long since found him. The little wigglers had clobbered all signs of infection, and sizeable lacerations had been taken care of at no cost, thanks to Mother Nature.

"Maggot therapy" is gaining new converts around the world, and it has professional medical backing.

Ooh, can't you just feel those little things wiggling under a bandage?

There are a couple of ice fishing derbies on the agenda, but without ice the whole issue becomes moot. I've heard that one local weather prognosticator predicts 53 inches of snow in February, so there may still be some winter left after this ridiculous thaw is finally over. As of this week, there was NO ice on Silver Lake in Wilmington. None.

Sunday, January 29, is set aside for the Greater Lowell Fly Fisher's annual event on Lake Mascuppic in Tyngsboro. You'll still have time to take a nap before the kick-off of the Superbowl.

S.W.E.A.T. will hold their Ames Pond derby in Tewksbury on Saturday, February 25. This author will once again give lessons on how to catch fish through the ice. Just stand by the weigh-in table and try to keep your jaw from dropping...

The Merrimack Valley Bass Masters annual ice fishing outing has been scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 23, also on Mascuppic in Tyngsboro.

And the Meredith N.H. Rotary Club ice fishing extravaganza, the biggest ice fishing derby in New England, is planned for February 4 and 5.

Now, all we need is a cold spell to generate some ice, and we're set.

But if the ice fails to show up, the Eastern Fishing & Outdoors Expo is planned for February 2-5 at the Worcester Centrum, and February 9-12 will see the Boston Sportsmen's Show at the Bayside Expo Center in South Boston.

He specializes in reality jolts

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"You get these guys with masks on, not because they're bad guys - which they are for smuggling dope - but because they can't stand the smell of the fish bones and fish blood on the bottom of the boat," says Babson College Assistant basketball coach Peter DiGiulio ... off court and in classrooms, auditoriums, and stadiums from here to California, telling kids why to say no to drugs.

"And there's a hidden camera on the guy who's helping load the boat, and you see a rat running across the bottom, ducking into the marijuana," he continues. "And you see bugs crawling in it. And these guys are spitting in it, and when they have to go to the bathroom, they're peeing in it."

"And then they give it to you."

The winner of the The Freedoms Foundation George Washington Medal of Honor for excellence in drug education, DiGiulio is a teacher in Revere by day and a teacher of thousands at night.

He specializes in reality jolts.

"Why Say No to Drugs," his one-hour message, grosses some listeners out. For his game plan includes language some principals might prefer not to hear, coaches might pretend to ignore, and teens know all too well. He illustrates his message with blood, gore, veins, needles, germs, spit, and dead bugs.

He'd rather not be doing it that way. He'd rather not be doing it at all. But business, he laments, is all too good.

Recently released national statistics - reflected in the school or park down the street - explain why. Alcohol use is stable. Cocaine use is up. And marijuana use among eighth graders has more than doubled since 1991 and is on the rise among high school sophomores and seniors, according to annual studies, national surveys and the badges of pop culture and high society - T-shirts, jewelry, videos, headgear, rap, and Rolls.

Statistics? DiGiulio has statistics that will "stagger your mind." Five percent of the world's population lives in the United States, he says, and we consume 50 percent of the world's cocaine. "Five percent of the people do 50 percent of the coke," he says. "Are we stupid? We are a dumb society. And this is a great example of being dumb, of being stupid and of how you become addicted to something."

Ignorance, in 1995, is no excuse, he says, and stopping the stupidity is a "joint" effort. "You have to talk to your parents. Your parents have to talk to you." And talk is what he does, in body and language, about alcohol, marijuana, cocaine, crack, inhalants, expectorants

Hot spit! Lives are at stake. Listen up, sports fans, phantoms, ballerinas, ballboys, scholars, and citizens: drugs, he says, are by no means cool. Listen up and give it straight to your best friend, daughter ... dad: "government" and "knucklehead" go hand in hand, and only you can help you.

Audiences, ages five to 55, in rapt response, say he's hot. He says he's bothered: about legal drugs like medicine, cigarettes and alcohol that whisper danger, and illegal drugs that kill without warning. "This is marijuana," he says, equipped with experiences and props. "On the labels of these legal drugs, you can read what's in them. The company's name is on the side. What's on the side of this plastic bag? I can see you through it. There's no directions on here. It doesn't say where it came from. You don't know who picked it, what they put in it. I've seen people smoke stuff, they don't even know what the hell's in it. You don't know what's in a marijuana cigarette when you smoke it."

"This is called a bone ... parents," he continues. "If you hear your kids say, 'Hey, I've got some bones,' it doesn't mean they have some leftover Kentucky Fried Chicken. It means they're smoking marijuana down your cellar. 'C'mon over, I want you to try some new grass.' They're not going to be lying on your lawn, they're going to be smoking dope. Know what they're talking about. Oh-oh, my kid's doing something wrong. Get the 'oh-oh' feeling."

"I bought this 10 years ago to show kids the real thing, and it's a wreck now, it's like dust, it's

REALITY JOLTS, gum bits, drug deals, and 'joint' efforts are only part of Babson assistant basketball coach Peter DiGiulio's game plan. When he's not coaching in Wellesley or teaching in Revere, DiGiulio can be found in local schools, stadiums and sports camps speaking on "Why" to "Say No!" to drugs. The winner of The Freedoms Foundation George Washington Medal of Honor for excellence in drug education, DiGiulio has spread his message across the country to thousands of young people - and their parents.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

God can do wonders with a, "Broken Heart" if we give Him all the pieces...My Aunt Nora is a very outspoken person. She calls a spade a spade and you know just how you stand with her. She got one of those demon colds last week and finally had to go to the doctor. There were wall to wall patients in the waiting room. After waiting more than an hour she went to the nurse and said, "please tell the doctor that I went home to die a natural death..."

formed many years of charitable works so while many men carry a card in their wallets that say, "I am a Catholic, in case of an accident call a priest," Frank's card says, "I am a Catholic, in case of an accident call a Bishop!"...

Bob Raleigh, WBZ talk show host, has a wonderful sense of humor. He said, "the odds of winning the Megabucks are about the same as a person getting hit by lightning in a coal mine. I'm happy to say that Bob is a fan of Woodchips..."

Spring, summer fall or winter, make no difference I love ice cream. What flavors of ice cream do you have? I asked the pretty waitress in the ice cream parlor, "Vanilla, strawberry and chocolate," she answered in a hoarse voice.

Trying to be sympathetic, I said, "do you have, Laryngitis?" "Look here, Bozo breath, I just told you, just Vanilla, strawberry and chocolate!"...

After many years I stopped in Reading to visit Larry Flynn who worked with me in the Boston Naval Shipyard. May Flynn, Larry's wife gave me a warm welcome and showed me to a chair in the living room.

Rachel the otter joins Stone Zoo family

Stone Zoo visitors who were saddened by the death of the river otter last month take heart, the otter exhibit is expected to reopen in the near future, possibly by the end of January. When completed, it will house not one, but a pair of otters.

The male river otter whom volunteers named Oscar died at the age of 18, which is elderly for an otter. His death was unexpected, because he showed no signs of illness, but a posthumous examination revealed an unusual skull growth that had damaged his brain.

Zoo staff members speculate that the growth may have resulted from a head injury years ago. Oscar lived in several placed before coming to Stone Zoo.

Although the zoo has no record of an injury, it is possible that complete medical records may not have been passed from all of his previous homes.

Before Oscar died, the Stone Zoo acquired a female otter named Rachel from the Ross Park Zoo in Binghamton, New York. Staff members discovered that Rachel was an escape artist, and that they have to dig a deeper moat before they could add her.

During these renovations, they also made plans to add an electric heater. By keeping the water temperature at 40 degrees Fahrenheit or higher, the otter exhibit can be open year round. Once the heater arrives the first otter can be added to the exhibit.

The first otter added will be a male, Slender, who shared an exhibit with Rachel at Ross Park. Stone Zoo officials had the opportunity to acquire the otters as a pair originally, but only one male can be displayed with a female and they already had Oscar.

After Oscar died, Stone Zoo Officials found that Rachel's former companion was still available and were able to acquire him. Thus, we have the good fortune of seeing a pair of otters who are accustomed to being together. Rachel was born in captivity in April 1990.

Because she has a history of being more dominant, she will be added to the exhibit a couple of weeks after Slender, who was born wild and captured in Louisiana in 1985. The exact date that Slender will go on display is uncertain depending on when the display renovations are finished, but we look forward to seeing him soon.

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

Just for the smell of it

Nose news is good news

Tewksbury police have a new weapon in the war on drugs: Officer Xiro has completed his training program in drug detection and is ready for expanded duty.

It's a dog's world - here's the scoop.

Patrolman Tim Sheehan "escorted" the town's police dog, a German Shepherd, through the Boston training course and the dog is now certified in vehicle searches. Officer Xiro has been trained to find marijuana, cocaine and heroin, by smell alone, according to the Tewksbury edition of the "Town Crier" which also reports that in less than 10 seconds, the dog located a tiny amount of marijuana, hidden in a plastic pill bottle placed atop a window curtain.

Inspector Paul Ringwood said he didn't know if the Tewksbury police have plans for using the dog's new capabilities, notes Bill Conlon in the "Crier," but the subject does lend itself to imagination: "A stroll along the hall lockers in the high school, perhaps?"

Danger: could be a smoking pun

The Lynnfield Selectmen have unanimously voted to ban "the smoking of cigarettes" in all municipal buildings.

The vote by the non-smoking board, according to the Lynnfield "Villager," supports efforts by employees trying to kick the nicotine habit. Toward that end, Selectmen recently endorsed the town's contribution of $25 per employee toward a smoking cessation session.

We'd guess the following lends itself to various interpretations, especially by die-hard smokers: "The board agreed that not to be discriminatory, smoking is to be banned in all town buildings, not just town hall."

"Danger: could be a smoking pun"? Or not. If you're looking for puns, you can't be picky: just jump right up to the section on nose dives, directly above, almost a pure case of Xiro gravity.

Park ranges beyond city

Medford and Malden Mayors Michael J. McGlynn and Edwin Lucey recently signed an agreement to develop a $350 million telecommunications center on Commercial Street on the Medford-Malden line.

The project - described as in its "embryonic, first, developmental" stage - is expected to move slowly and could take as long as 10 years to complete. It will also take, according to the "Daily News Mercury," a massive, coordinated effort among state and federal agencies and the private sector. The equation is composed of variables such as the taking of land, road improvements, MBTA upgrades, and City Council support.

Long-term benefits could include as many as 10,000 jobs, annual salaries averaging $44,000, $350 million in private sector investment, and increased tax revenues. Earmarked for an area along Corporation Way in Medford and Commercial Street in Malden, the park would cover approximately 80 acres, more than 40 in Medford, more than 30 in Malden, with possible expansion to a 200-acre area in Everett.

Bad news here

We don't really look for these things but this headline of the week from a local paper did attract attention. Second things, first, though - the first paragraph reads, "The School we can't tell you which day, because there is no date on page one of the paper in question.

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

Go ahead, snow us

Your forecast, please

Parents, teachers, students ... we're looking for 'whether' data here. What do you think about the weather event below?

Reacting to last year's extreme number of snow days and in an effort to end school before July, several local communities delayed school on January 12th, rather than close it for the whole day. The following communities, for example, opted for a one-hour delay: Winchester and Reading; a 90-minute delay: Wakefield, North Reading, Tewksbury, and Stoneham; two hours: Woburn and Burlington. Melrose cancelled morning kindergarten and opened all schools at 9:30; Wilmington closed for the day.

Would you rather have a snow day? A one-hour delay? A 90-minute delay? A two-hour delay?

At Shapiro's Deli years ago, a Chinese clerk was speaking perfect Yiddish. (I understand it for I was born in the West End of Boston where Yiddish was the native language.

"How come?" I asked, "Sh, not so loud Chipper," Shapiro said, "He thinks I'm teaching him to speak English."

SUPERSTARS: Nelson Burbank, Reading; Denise

Was the one-hour delay perfect for parents who usually drive their kids to school and had to spend time de-icing and shoveling out? Was 90 minutes too long? How did you cope? And, by the way, is the person who makes the least money in the family - and who probably punches an unforgiving clock - the one who has to stay home when snow (or sickness) strikes?

Send in your responses and solutions. We always love to hear from kids but remember ... all you kids voting to close school for the day, we can usually tell who's writing so you're welcome to try stack the opinions ... but you can't snow us.

Not shy but retiring

After 25 years in the Reading school system, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Munnely will retire as of April 30th.

Having just missed qualifying for the state's early retirement system, Munnely publicly announced his retirement at a recent School Committee meeting. He intends to share his educational expertise elsewhere as a consultant.

Munnely became superintendent in 1987 after serving for 17 years as assistant superintendent under the late Dr. Robert Wells.

Earlier this school year, anticipating Munnely's retirement; the School Committee named Parker Principal Dr. Jack Delaney interim superintendent. However, at the January 9th School Committee meeting, the committee decided to post the position again, "for internal candidates only," and hopes to interview three candidates, if there are three candidates, early in February.

The committee also decided to fund a professional search group for the regular position which could run from $4,000 to $7,500 and could turn out to cost more than the $6,000 they're offering for the interim position

Committee member Tom Stohman cited North Reading School Committee members who told him there was no way they could have found a superintendent without a search group. However, at least one other neighboring town's selection committee - extremely disappointed in the quality of candidates recommended by the group they used earlier this year - felt that the group sent anyone who applied, just so it could send someone.

According to the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," the job will be advertised with a salary range in the "high 70s." Munnely makes about $82,000.

Higher learning revisited

Because the New Hampshire legislature refuses to recognize Martin Luther King Day, the New England Association of Educational Opportunity Program Personnel has voted not to hold its 1995 Trio Day Celebration in New Hampshire even though the traditional site, according to the Malden "Daily News Mercury," is the home state of the current president - which, this year, is New Hampshire.

Authorized under the Higher Education Act of 1965, TRIO encompasses such programs as Upward Bound, Educational Talent Search, Educational Opportunity Centers, and Student Support Services. Its conference will be in Plymouth, Massachusetts rather than Portsmouth, New Hampshire. New Hampshire is the only state in the United States which does not recognize Martin Luther King Day.

MOVIES

"Legends of the Fall" Short Takes

by Rochelle Plana
"Legends of the Fall"
 Starring Anthony Hopkins, Brad Pitt, Aidan Quinn, Julia Ormond, Henry Thomas, Karina Lombard, Gordon Tootoosis. Directed by Edward Zwick. Screenplay by Susan Shilliday, Bill Wittliff. Produced by Zwick, Wittliff, Marshall Herskovitz. Based on the novella by Jim Harrison. Rated R.

Epic. This movie has "epic" written all over it. Gorgeous sweeping vistas, swelling music and numerous close-ups. Forget it, "Legends of the Fall" is all smoke and mirrors, because no matter how much it telegraphs its importance, there isn't enough content for the viewer to feel anything, except perhaps slightly bored.

Anthony Hopkins, in a fine if mis-directed appearance, is a retired army colonel who walked away with disgust from the government's anti-Indian campaigns early in this century. Staking out a spot in a remote, breath-takingly beautiful corner of Montana, he made a home for himself and his three sons. His wife has departed for Boston when the action begins, having had enough of the wilderness and the Colonel.

The story mostly concerns the middle son Tristan, played by Brad Pitt, who looks every bit the handsome hero as he broods for the camera. Older brother Alfred (Aidan Quinn) is stable, capable and consistently overshadowed by Tristan. Younger brother Samuel (Henry Thomas) is guarded by his older brothers like a fragile china doll.

It is this dynamic of brotherly love, combined with the film's consistently pleasing aesthetic value, that saves it from drowning under a script bloated with its own sense of self-importance. Because eventually, you lose the emotional ties that try to hold the story together as it moves from one Important Dramatic Moment to another.

The plot first begins to falter when Susannah (Julia Ormond) arrives at the ranch in Big Sky country with her fiancée, youngest brother Samuel. When the boys depart for Europe and WWI, Susannah never leaves the ranch, though it is not made clear just why she stays. For the next few years, her involvement with the brothers alters their paths almost as much as the modernization of America.

The characters enter shaky territory when it becomes clear that not one of them intends to listen to their hearts, and therefore no one will be happy. Sadly, this lesson is underscored by violence, as if a bloodbath will ultimately redeem everyone.

There is nothing to quibble about in the performances, as all are solid and heartfelt. Quinn is especially remarkable for making us pay attention to his character, as he is the brother one would think too stolid to feel passionate about. Yet Quinn conveys his hurt and anger at knowing he can never do anything that would make him as beloved as his brother Tristan, a wild troublemaker who is forgiven every sin.

Scattered throughout the film are bits of dialogue that are simply wonderful, but these tidbits are lost in the morass of a story that never seems real. That unreality is underscored by an ending that tells us that we have just witnessed a mythical saga. Really, if director Edward Zwick had done his job, we would have known that already.

This either needed to be vastly scaled down or, better yet, allowed to run an additional 30-45 minutes. Then, perhaps, all those overly passionate scenes with too much dramatic energy could have been connected by the subtler shadings and realistically developed characters that make a movie seem real.

Dumb and Dumber is about right. Francophiles will no doubt love this flick, as it is a direct descendant of those goofy Jerry Lewis flicks we were forced to watch as children. Jim Carrey and Jeff Daniels are a couple of idiots who stumble into a kidnapping case that takes them on an extensive road trip. Despite the endless scatological humor, this movie actually has some laughs in it - embarrassing as it is to admit. Not enough laughs to keep it afloat, however, as the script is a no-brainer and the direction too confining. Rated PG-13. * 1/2

Drop Zone should just drop out of sight, because there is no way a sane audience can accept the ludicrous plot machinations director John Badham tries to shove down our collective throats. Wesley Snipes is the U.S. Marshall hoping to corral a gang of sky diving thugs who killed his brother, another marshall, during a mid-air prison break. Even the breath-taking stunts can't rescue this adventure from its own silliness. Rated R. * 1/2

Bluegrass Bash in Wakefield

On Saturday evening, January 21 at 8:00, The Linden Tree Coffeehouse in Wakefield will host its 2nd annual Bluegrass Bash. Last year's Bash was a great success and featured some fine bands.

This year will undoubtedly prove just as exceptional with the return of Willow Creek and newcomers to Wakefield, The Cowtippers, plus surprise guests.

Willow Creek is a well established straight-ahead bluegrass band from the Boston-Cambridge-Malden area. It features Maria Wolters, vocals and guitar, Tom Speth on bass, Richie Hand on banjo and vocals, Gene Kettlejohn on guitar and vocals, and the newest member Evan Riley, on Bill Monroe-style mandolin and vocals.

The band covers the traditional spectrum of bluegrass music. Willow Creek has performed at the Topsfield Fair and many other festivals over its 8-year history.

The Cowtippers from the central Massachusetts area include Charlie Rees on banjo, mandolin, and vocals, Rich Ottman is on bass and vocals, while Mike Robinson is on guitar and vocals.

The band performs an eclectic blend of folk, country, and bluegrass. Strong trio vocals are a band hallmark. The Cowtippers also have performed at summer festivals in Brimfield and Leicester, Mass.

Admission to The Bluegrass Bash is just $6. Doors open at 7:30 p.m. The Linden Tree Coffeehouse is located in the social hall of the Unitarian-Universalist Church, 326 Main Street, Wakefield. For information: 246-2836

Disclosure finally brings sexual harassment to a big Hollywood flick - and tells it from the man's point of view. Actually, boss Demi Moore's physical demands upon her employee, Michael Douglas, merely provide sexy sizzle for what is nothing more than a decent corporate thriller. The plot is overblown and awkward, so don't expect many surprises, but the special effects and the performances are top notch, especially from the predominantly female supporting cast. Glitzy and shallow, this flick is also fun, kind of the cinematic equivalent of a pop tart. Rated R.  1/2

Trapped in Paradise should have been named "Trapped in Purgatory." Nicolas Cage, John Lovitz and Dana Carvey are three idiot bank robbers who think they've found the perfect job in a small town, only to find themselves choking on the kindness of strangers. The movie is a simple series of connect-the-plots and the acting is remarkably atrocious. Go rent "The Ref," if you want a Christmas robbery flick with a little life in it. Rated PG. *

Junior, a comedy about the first pregnancy man, is better than you would expect. Not that the material isn't rather goey, it is, but Arnold Schwarzenegger's inherent stiffness suits him as an uptight, overly reserved scientist who is aided in his illegal experiments by Danny DeVito. As Mr. Macho becomes Mr. Mom, he falls for Emma Thompson, a lonely, good-natured researcher who could trip over the pattern in a carpet. The main body of the story may be a stretch, but the other story, the one about three lonely, disconnected, ambitious people, makes a strong emotional connection. Rated PG-13.  1/2

A Low Down Dirty Shame is a big, fat disappointment. Keenan Ivory Wayans wrote, directed and starred in this comedic action/adventure that is neither very funny nor very exciting. Ex-cop turned private investigator Wayans is offered a chance to reclaim his good name when former colleague Charles Dutton puts him on a case both thought long closed. There are some very funny vignettes and one or two decent, if overly produced, action scenes. But the overall effect is disjointed and unoriginal. Rated R. **

The Santa Clause stars Tim Allen as a divorced dad who finds he has been contracted under "the Santa clause" to permanently step into the Elfmeister's boots, like it or not. At the heart of this nauseatingly sweet Christmas confection is a very clever idea and a lot of funny, albeit cynical, lines. Unfortunately, sentimentality and sitcom-like play devices undermine this lightweight comedy. Rated PC. **
